“Lab Safety, HAZCOM and Right to Know”

INTRODUCTION: HENRYK DAUN, PH.D.
SAFETY COORDINATOR
DEPARTMENT OF FOOD SCIENCE

GUEST SPEAKER: JENNIFER MANCINI
RUTGERS ENVIRONMENTAL HEALTH AND SAFETY

This session is appropriate for faculty, staff, graduate students, post-doctoral fellows or others who routinely handle chemicals in laboratories.

Persons that routinely handle chemicals are required to attend training annually in order to comply with the Right to Know/HAZCOM law.

All new employees and students MUST attend a classroom training session.

This training session is considered an initial session, however it satisfies the requirements of refresher training as well. Refresher training can either be taken as a classroom session or on-line. The on-line training is available at the REHS website (http://rehs.rutgers.edu).

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 2006; 3:55 PM
Maclinn Auditorium, Food Science Building